BOGUS MESSAGE, WANTS $250,000

Marriage of Helen Barnette to This Is the Sum Which Albert T. New York Broker Was Not to Have Taken Place Yesterday, Relatives Say.

CONSIDERABLE MYSTERY SURROUNDS WHOLE AFFAIR.

Prospective Bride and Mother Come Here in Response to Telegram, Pronounced to Be Forgery.

The relatives of Joseph Paul Brad shaw, the young broker, who, according to despatches from Franklin, Pa., was to have been married to Miss Helen Barnette, of that city, yesterday, out failed to appear, a telegram saying ne was ill being received instead, vigrously denied to-day that any wedding had been arranged for Tuesday, although they admitted that an engagenent existed between the young man and Miss Barnette. They furthermore enounced the telegram saving he was ill, which brought Miss Barnette, her mother and brother to this city on a special train, as a forgery, although the name of Percy Bradshaw, the prosbridegroom's brother, was signed to it.

There is a good deal of mystery sur ounding the entire matter, and it looks as though there must have been a mistle doubt that the society folk of Franklin had prepared themselves for the wedding, and that Miss Barnette and her people expected one. On the other hand, the relatives of young Mr. Bradshaw declare emphatically that they knew nothing of a wedding being arranged, although they do say that they expect one sooner or later.

Bradshaw with Sweetheart.

Young Mr. Bradshaw has given no public explanation himself. It was said by his father to-day that he met Miss Barnette and her mother and brother they arrived here yesterday epent the day and the evening with them and would spend most of the day In their company. At just which hotel in the city the Barnette party is stayng is not known. A search of all the rincipal hotels in the city by The Evenng World to-day failed to reveal their whereabouts. Mr. Bradshaw, who is associated with the firm of Clark, odge & Co., of No. 59 Wall street, did ot appear at that office to-day.

The story which came to New York from Franklin to-day is that last Monmarriage to which Mr. Bradshaw was invited. He failed to appear. Late that same night, the story runs, a telegram was received signed with the name of Percy Bradshaw, stating that Joseph Bradshaw was ill and asking Miss Barcette to come to him. Miss Barnette chartering a special train for the puroose, and on their arrival here were informed that Mr. Bradshaw was not ill d that his brother had never sent any such telegram.

What other explanations there were does not appear, but while despatches from Franklin say that the friends of the young woman expected the ceremony to occur at noon yesterday at the local Episcopal church, and that a special car was sidetracked at Franklin shaw's relatives say it is all untrue.

Young Mr. Bradshaw Not Home. Joseph Bradshaw lives with his father, Capt. W. H. Bradshaw, at No. 167 Berkeley avenue, Orange, N. J., but could not be found there to-day. His father said: "My son came home at 12.30 P. M.

this morning after spending the evening in eNw York with Miss Barnette, er mother and brother, I asked him about this story and he said some one had played a cruei hoax on Miss Barnate. If any wedding had been arranged for we knew nothing of it at all. As a matter of fact no wedding was arranged at this time. It would hardly be fixed for a date without our knowing anything of it. Joe went into town to-day early and will be with Miss Barnette all day. He is engaged to her, I understand, and I suppose

SEQUEL TO WOMAN'S FLIGHT LAST MAY.

When Mrs. Foster Went Away She Took Daughter with Her, but Father Later Got Possession of Child.

Chalmers Dale, jr., son of the Wall street broker, is being sued for $250,000 by Albert T. Foster, manager of the Algonquin Hotel, of No. 59 West Forty-Dale alienated the affections of his wife. The announcement that the suft had been filed followed a sensational police court case, in which Foster was haled to Yorkville Police Court charged by Dale with assault. The alleged assault took place in the dining-room of the hotel where Dale had come to dine. He said that there was no one in the dining room at the time except himself, and that he was about to sit down at a table when Mr. Foster ran in and ordered him out of the house. Dale says that Foster immediately set upon him and struck him a violent blow in the face. arrest of Foster followed.

Why He Struck Dale. In court Dale was asked: "How long nave you known Mrs. Foster?" This question was objected to by Dale's counsel. Foster was then asked why he had struck Dale.

"Because his presence was objection able," replied Foster. Magistrate Whitman then adjourned the hearing until July 22, when it will be called in Essex Market Court. The police court proceedings and the suit against young Dale are the sequels to the matrimonial differences that have developed in the affairs of the Fosters, which began when Mrs. Foster quitted her husband, taking her little daughter with her. She said that she was going to Massachusetts to visit her parents. Later, Foster avers, he received a letter from is wife saying that she would never return to him, and that the parting was for ever. He began a search for his wife, wishing to reclaim his Detectives employed by the hotel manager followed Mrs. Foster and lo cated her in Baltimore at a hotel. Mr Foster and his counsel went to Baltiday a girl friend of Miss Barnette gave a dinner in honor of her approaching the wife the attorney seized the child and made off with her. The child was brought to New York and is in the custody of her father.

A detail of ten men would clamber of the cellar with the hose to remain until they felt themselves to remain until they felt themselves becoming unable to stand. They were instructed to signal by jerking the hose and upon such a signal the firemen on the sidewalk would pull up the Sne.

Perhaps half of those who went into the cellar would come up clinging to the hose.

It was necessary for firemen to climb down after the others. No man would consent to leave the fight against the fire unless he was absolutely inclpless and some of those who were taken to hospitals tried to escape when they are overed their senses and found that they had been removed from the sphere of activity.

SHE SAYS, "GOOD THING I HAD SCARLET FEVER.

Rosy-Cheeked Lass Was a Convalescent on North Brother Island When She Performed Her Thrilling Feat.

In the picture of faint-hearted men nd those who, to eliminate harsher accusations, are said to have "lost their eads" when the flames of the General locum were destroying and driving to estruction more than a thousand lives, stands one heroic figure. It is that of Marie McCann, the scarlet-fever conalescent on North Brother Island, who swam out to the wreck and rescued six eople from drowning.

In recognition of her heroism the members of the Coroner's jury, who heard her simple story on the witness stand last Tuesday, are subscribing to purse for her and also to give her a rold medal as a more lasting testimonial o her rare bravery.

Mary McCann is a pretty, rosyheeked Irish immigrant, who shortly after she landed on these shores last May was stricken by scarlet fever. She came over to the "new country" to g rto service. She is without close friends or relatives on this side of the water nd has only herself and her own good sense to depend upon. When she be-came ill there was no one to take care of her but the city, and she went to North Brother Island.

"It was a good thing that I had the fever, wasn't it?" she said to a newspaper man after her testimony at the inquest. That was the way she looked it it. To her it was Providence.

THREE NEW ROUNDSMEN.
